

YOU WANT TO HELP PEOPLE...

Cool, so do we! That's why we are looking for an enthusiastic, people-person to help us provide our award-winning behaviour change services and help people change their lives for good. We have a position coming up in Hertfordshire and want to find a great match for our dynamic, innovative team.

If you sound like the person described below, we want to hear from you:

- Someone who is interested in helping us change the status quo in Public Health
- Someone who is passionate about helping people
- Someone who understands people, and the importance of understanding people
- Someone who can think on their feet and fly by the seat of their pants
- Someone who has limited time to dedicate to work but wants to spend it doing something meaningful
- Someone who is actively looking for a different role to anything else out there at the moment
- Someone to help us reach our BHAGs (Big Hairy Audacious Goals!)

The job will involve (well, some of it!):

- Setting up and delivering our award winning behaviour change services
- Preparing nutrition information in line with the latest evidence and in a way that is engaging for people using our services
- Using our digital platform to provide tailored support to people to make change
- Continuing to develop our excellent reputation for industry leading weight management programmes by investing in evidence, theory and best practice
- Ensuring you take advantage of the range of CPD opportunities we offer
- Being awesome!

We are incredibly passionate about giving people the opportunity to do meaningful work to help change people's lives for good. We also believe that you should have fun at work. If you do too, check out the job description here. We want to hear from you!
